"Wholistic Pet Organics' line of supplements fits perfectly with our company's mission. We look forward to bringing these great products to our customers throughout the world."

Over the past few years Cherrybrook has placed a major focus on expanding their health and wellness products. According to Roy Loomis, the company is carrying an increasing variety of all-natural products that are truly beneficial to a pet's health. "Wholistic Pet Organics are extremely rich in nutrients. They do not contain any fillers, chemicals or additives, making them not only very healthy but also very cost effective," he said. "These products maintain the highest standard of quality we have seen and have a clear purpose—to keep pets healthy."

Wholistic Pet Organics was founded over 12 years ago by Jack and Sandy Phillips. Both Jack and Sandy are avid animal lovers and breeders. They were concerned by the health problems that plagued domesticated pets. They realized that conditions such as hip dysplasia, cancer, and skin disorders are all too common. In order to combat these problems, they began to formulate their own organic supplements. The Philips' began manufacturing and selling their products at dog shows. The company rapidly grew to where it is today---now partnering with Cherrybrook, one of the most well-respected professional pet supply distributors.

According to Phillips, he chooses his partners very carefully. "Many companies want to carry our products," he said. "But we want to make sure we align ourselves with companies who have a passion for keeping pets healthy. Cherrybrook's unique position as the industry leader in show dog supplies makes them an exceptional partner for Wholistic Pet Organics.”
