

Advanced Medical Treatment for Pets!

If your pet is diagnosed with cancer, liver disease or any other life-threatening condition there is always hope. You don't have to lose your beloved friend to a devastating illness or injury. We can help. For nearly a decade, MedVet Memphis has been working with regular veterinarians to improve the lives of companion animals in our community. When the time comes that you need specialty veterinarian care, we can help your pet as well.

We have a team of highly skilled veterinarians, including surgeons, internists, a dermatologist and oncology care. Our hospital is fully equipped with the finest veterinary tools available. This allows us to detect and treat a wide variety of illnesses and injuries including cancer, kidney disease, fractured bones and joint problems. We can perform CT (CAT) scans, biopsies, delicate surgeries, complete hip replacements and many other advanced medical procedures. We also have a comprehensive rehabilitation center to help your pet regain his strength and mobility.

Our state of the art emergency center provides after hours treatment and monitoring. We are here for your pet day and night. So if your pet is suffering from a severe or life-threatening condition, contact your veterinarian and ask for a referral to our hospital. We may be able to help your pet even after your regular doctor has exhausted all known diagnostics and treatments. Call your veterinarian today and ask them about MedVet Memphis.
